SUMMARY

We searched long and far (well, within 1km of the property) to find your one true love.

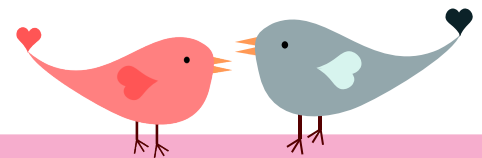

Cupid's search did not start well in his local Aldi so he decided to expand his search to the nightlife. Unfortunately even after a few glasses of his favourite tippie the clientele still didn't look any better, so he tried his luck at speed dating to 'observe and report' only of course.

In a bid to clear his head the next morning he went straight to the gym and then for a run in the park, but still had no luck in finding any potential matches.

With the options ever decreasing, Cupid pondered his next move in the library before pinning his last hope finding a match in a nearby romantic cafe. Luckily the cake wasn't the most tempting item on display...
